Bettina Schroeder presents this holiday in association with Mark and Gillian Pattinson of NW Highlands Art, which provides the ultimate in painting courses at Brynaport. Brynaport is situated at the southern end of the coastal road through the tiny west highland village of Achintraid. The views are staggering across Loch Kishorn to the ancient sandstone corries and hills of Applecross, which rise to nearly 3,000ft.

To the east the limestone hills rise more gently with hidden lochans and peaty burns. Turning north from Achintraid one comes to the fishing village of Shieldaig and on to the majestic Torridon Hills. The light and colours, with the history and romance of the Scottish Highlands, make a most inspirational and dynamic place to paint.

There is a wide variety of subjects to paint. Open skies and dramatic, rugged mountain scenery encompass smaller and much more intimate views with wild flowers, rocky streams and coastal waters with villages and boats on the shoreline. The course focuses on landscape painting, but you might find yourself painting flowers or still life in the studio according to the demands of the day. The workshops cater for painters at all levels, and the numbers are restricted to maximise individual attention.

Art materials may be purchased from the studio shop and drawing boards are provided. It is necessary to bring your own easels and stools for outside work.

Non-painting partners are welcomed at a discount. Loch and sea fishing may be arranged. Lochcarron boasts one of Scotland's first 9-hole golf courses. This is also a wonderful walking area. Within easy driving distance are the Torridon Hills with several Munros.

For garden lovers there are gardens at Attadale House and the National Trust Gardens of Inverewe. Other places of interest are Eilean Donan Castle, the Isle of Skye, Lochcarron Weavers, local craft shops and local pubs serving seafood lunches. And non-painters are welcome to accompany the group on their painting excursions.

Accommodation and Meals

The accommodation is at Brynport and cottages in Achintraid within walking distance of Brynport. A full Highland breakfast, lunch and dinner is provided at Brynport. Every morning a large variety of prepared ingredients is laid out so you can choose your own picnic lunch. Towards the end of the painting day, tea and cakes are served in the studio. The three-course dinner features locally-sourced produce with wonderful seafood and wines from around the world.

Brynport has facilities for disabled people, and vegetarians. Food intolerances arising from medical conditions can usually be catered for. No supplement is charged for a single room, as this would discriminate against people on their own. It would therefore be appreciated if friends could share a room if possible.

Itinerary and Excursions

Each morning starts with a brief talk about the plans for the day, followed by painting in the immediate surroundings, or a short drive to one of the many inspiring locations nearby. Once on location or in the studio, Bettina will give a painting demonstration and will advise you throughout your painting time.

Painting excursions are usually made to Plockton, a picturesque yachting village with palm trees along the water front and to an age-old bridge above a splendid waterfall, off the road to Applecross, “Bealach-na-Ba” (pass of the cattle), the highest road in Britain, or we go further across the pass to the fishing village of Shildaig.

One or two days are usually spent painting in Achintraid itself, with old cottages along the shores of Loch Carron and stunning views of the mountains beyond. During the week there is often a boat trip to Kishorn Island or accessible beaches. Plans might vary a little depending on the needs for the day.

If, later in the day, you haven’t already worked up an appetite for dinner you might like to choose an early evening walk from the “area walks” booklet or continue painting in the studio.

On the last night of the course, drinks are served in the studio, where you are invited to exhibit in a “private view” of the week’s work.

The Painting Course

Bettina's painting courses are suitable for all, from absolute beginners to accomplished painters. They are designed to help you to make the most of your abilities and to find a personal approach. The emphasis is on how to capture the initial excitement on first spotting a subject, without getting too bogged down in technicalities. Tuition will be in watercolour mainly but also in other media as required.

Daily demonstrations (in- or outdoors) are tailored to the particular needs of the students and to help you to get started. The tuition will also deal with general painting problems such as basic perspective, choice of colour, composition, shadows and many other tricks of the trade. Above all, Bettina's courses aim to enhance the pleasure of painting whilst improving your skills.

Particular attention is given to wet-in-wet technique as well as some of the ground rules for beginners. Groups are kept small so you can visibly advance within the course duration irrespective of your ability. For complete beginners Bettina teaches a simple, easy to follow 'step by step' approach.

Tuition is normally arranged in day sessions lasting from 10am until 4pm, so there is time for you to relax before dinner and explore the locality. If you are keen to carry on painting, you are welcome to make use of the studio and surrounds of Brynport.
